RIO DE JANEIRO, May 23rd, 1893.

Until further notice our American correspondents will confer a great favor on us by addressing their letters "via England." The direct mails are slow, uncertain and exposed to dangers on the coast which largely increase the risk of loss. As the postal authorities in the United States are accustomed to hold the mails for direct destinations, the envelopes should be distinctly marked "via England."

The situation in Rio Grande is simply beyond all comprehension. The so-called government victory at Inhambundi is still a mystery, and no official reports are forthcoming. The combat at Ibiculy on the 12th, although claimed as a victory by both sides, is left unexplained. Since then several skirmishes have occurred near D. Pedrito where the federalists claim to have won a signal victory at Ponche-Verde over the forces under General Telles, encompassing and routing his vanguard which lost 140 killed, 90 prisoners, 200 horses and two pieces of artillery, besides arms and munitions. This telegram was received on the 18th. This victory has of course been denied by the Castilhistas at Porto Alegre, but it is known that large numbers of wounded men have arrived at Livramento and that some sharp fighting has lately occurred. As the Castilhistas are not claiming victories, a safe conclusion is that they have suffered a reverse. A telegram published this morning says that Gumeresinho Samiva attacked a government force near Bagé on the 17th and captured 1,500 horses. A private telegram to the chief editor of the Paz from Senator Pinheiro Machado, one of the Castilhistas chiefs, says however that the enemy is dispersed and the "revolution is suffocated." This is probably intended for political effect. These contradictory reports make it impossible for us to know the real situation there, but the probabilities are that the revolution is as strong as ever, though the federalists may not be prepared as yet to accept battle in the open field.

There is but little of practical value to record in connection with Congress during the past week beyond two votes adverse to the policy of the President. On the 18th Deputy Demetrio Ribeiro, of Rio Grande, asked for a discussion of affairs in that state in committee and the request was conceded by the Chamber. In the discussion which followed, the policy of the government was severely criticised, and resolutions lamenting the situation in that state were proposed. On Saturday these resolutions, harmless but still implying censure, were adopted by a vote of 62 to 52. Yesterday the second blow at the executive was struck in the Senate by a refusal to confirm the nomination of Dr. Banta Ribeiro as prefect of this city. The nomination had been under consideration by a committee for some days, and it was believed that an adverse report would be rendered. Yesterday this anticipation was realized and the nomination was thrown out by a vote of 29 to 16. This action of the Senate meshes with almost unanimous approval in the city, for the official in question has been playing the rôle of municipal dictator in a way that promised bankruptcy for the city treasury in a very short time. It is a pity he could not have been rejected long ago, for he has already accomplished an immense amount of harm, and has covered the administration of the city with incalculable discredit. The protection of such men by President Floriano can be only a source of weakness, and it is to be hoped that this experience will show him the need of strengthening his government by the appointment of a very different class of men to such important offices.

In his frenzy to carry out so-called municipal improvements, the project of this city is doing incalculable harm by the destruction of shade trees. It is a species of vandalism so common that it is never noticed, for there appear to be very few true lovers of trees in this country, and almost none who truly appreciate their real value in the economy of life. No one seems to know that trees and shrubs are the lungs of nature, the purifiers of the air we breathe. There are some who appreciate the shade they give us, but even among those there are but few who will spare the tree which litters the doorway with leaves, shades or conceals the house, or interrupts the view. Most Brazilians, we notice, prefer to have their dwellings stand out free from trees and tall shrubs, so that the inmates can keep a watchful eye on the passing world, and so that the passing world can see the ornamental appendages of the house and the dresses of the ladies as they sit at the windows or in the doorways. For this they are willing to have the tropical sunshine in the windows and on the roof all day long. There is also a prejudice against the dampness which shade trees cause, it being forgotten that this dampness is caused principally by the lack of drainage and ventilation. If a shaded ground is carefully drained and is open to the wind, and if the dwelling is also well ventilated and left open during the day, there is in reality very little to be feared from dampness. A proper study of this subject can not fail to show that trees are of the greatest value in the health of a city, and that they should be protected by the most stringent of laws. Neither the people nor the municipal officials should be permitted to cut them down, without the clearest and best of reasons. In this city we have seen large and beautiful trees cut down because their roots interfered with the unnecessary paving of a little square, and we have seen many a little patch of a square, which would be far more beautiful and useful as a public garden, given over to the ugly stone pavement. Why it is that the people of tropical countries are so partial to bare, stone pavements, we have never been able to understand. Perhaps they facilitate revolutionary operations, or are more easily cleaned and kept in order. However this may be, the planting of trees in the streets and public squares should be encouraged, and then they should be jealously protected. An old tree has an intrinsic value in it which no municipal legislator can afford to ignore, and this in itself, if not for its beauty and comfort, should be sufficient to insure its protection against the vandals who wish to lay paving stones where it stands.

THE TREASURY REPORT.

The report of the minister of finance just presented in Congress contains much valuable information on the financial state of the country, though perhaps the recommendations will not meet with general approval. Its discussion of the situation opens with a statement of the revenue and expenditures for the calendar year 1890, of which a provisional report was given last year. In the budget for that year the ordinary revenue was estimated at 173,541,544$829 and the extraordinary at 21,468,870$203; a total of 195,010,414$832. In this were added the following resources: net deposits and metal issue 3,813,221$454, and balance from 1889 (loans, unsettled debt, etc.) 90,909,676$397. The appropriations for that year were fixed at 219,262,788$588. The definite settlement of the accounts of that year shows the following results:

Ordinary revenue:
Import taxes.....	100,487,442$655
Post dues.....	544,813 359
Export taxes.....	19,997,222 399
Interior taxes.....	53,237,144 487
Extraordinary.....
Additional resources:
Net deposits.....	6,524,227$678
Nickel.....	157,000 000
Balance from 1889.....
Total.....
Expenditures:
Interior.....	11,036,197$945
Public Instruction.....	6,855,433 601

This shows an apparent surplus in favor of the Treasury at the end of the year of 71,867,119$259, which in great part consisted of the unexpended balance of the 1889 loan. Comparing the expenditures with the actual revenues of the year, however, including the issue of nickel in the revenue, there was a deficit of 25,235,468$293.

In addition to the above, the Treasury received during the year 71,316,208$936 in deposits against the issue of currency by banks of emission, and paid out 6,200,000$ for account of two banks for the redemption of outstanding notes. It also called in 6,005,000$ in Treasury bills and paid 10,550,000$ on account of loans to agriculture. Treating these deposits as a legitimate resource of the Treasury (as they were so declared by Sr. Ray Barboza) Minister Severella finds that they yielded a balance of 48,271,208$936, which added to the apparent surplus, gave a total of 71,867,119$259, which the government an available balance of 129,138,328$195. He admits, however, that 17,008,200$958 of this balance were in the hands of "shady responsible parties."

Compared with 1889 the revenue of the year showed an increase of 24,413,109$026, and the expenditures an increase of 34,484,414$991.

The Year 1891. The liquidation of the year 1891 is not yet complete, but an approximate idea can be given of its balances. The estimated revenue of the year was 227,971,217$356, and the expenditure 232,303,057$415, showing a deficit of 4,421,840$059. It is evident, it was calculated, would be transformed into a surplus by the net deposits in the Treasury. The actual balance of the year, still subject to definite liquidation, were as follows:

Ordinary revenue:
Import taxes.....	106,217,556$266
Post dues.....	584,302 364
Export taxes.....	16,754,959 300
Interior taxes.....	67,150,302 101

Total apparent surplus.....

Outside of these calculations, the minister reports that the Treasury received 12,616,886$138 as deposits against bank issues, 638,500$ from the issue of nickel coins and 650,000$ from a redemption of the contract with the Banco Territorial de Minas Geraes, which with the apparent surplus fighting in the 1890 balance sheet gives a total of 123,073,272$702. The redemption of paper money took 3,470,016$800 during the year, the Treasury bills 490,000$, and silver purchases 1,653,035$997, a total of 5,613,052$897, which reduces this surplus to 128,459,675$805. Adding in this the apparent surplus for 1892 the government had a surplus at the end of the year of 166,349,121$471, of which 14,388,612$853 were in the hands of "responsible parties." As no cash balance is given, the real character of this surplus, and its availability, can only be conjectured.

The Year 1892. The returns for the year 1892 are so incomplete that the minister is obliged to give satisfactory balances only by rough estimates of what the Treasury has yet to receive and has really expended. Several states have not made full returns, and the Treasury agency in London had not yet sent in its report for the second quarter of the year. The figures, so far as received, give the following results:

Ordinary revenue:
Import taxes.....	131,175,163$896
Post dues.....	406,024 339
Export taxes.....	441,180 498
Interior taxes.....	49,915,052 610
Extraordinary.....
Total.....
Expenditures (by departments):
Interior.....	10,092,647$139
Public Instruction.....	13,871,000 449
Justice.....	6,281,895 674
Foreign Affairs.....	1,688,901 255
Marine.....	16,976,018 579
War.....	23,184,426 637
Agriculture.....	53,158,056 596
Finance.....	75,002,347 244
Apparent deficit.....
Estimating the returns not yet received from the states and London agency on the basis of the returns already received, the minister calculates that the revenue will be increased by 18,226,313$892, while the receipts for the additional six months of 1893 (the Brazilian Treasury includes 18 months in its fiscal year) will increase that amount by 17,300,837$999 more, which will give a total revenue of 224,066,779$361.

On the side of expenditures the minister calculates that the entire appropriations for the year, 205,948,264$128 will be expended, together with the supplementary appropriations of 2,557,329$896. To this he adds the following extraordinary credits decreed by the executive during the year:

Ex. and sup. credits for account of states and municipalities.....
Receipts from capital and col. debts not estimated.....
Deference credits.....
Differences in exchange not provided for.....
Total.....

This increases the total expenditure of 1892 to 208,505,593$705 and shows a deficit of 43,091,014$404 over the estimated receipts of the year. This the minister reduces to 24,110,200$259 by deducting the net deposits of the year, which are placed at 18,971,858$15.

During the year the government issued 956,000$ in nickel coins, and 10,956,000$ in paper money, besides receiving 8,071,921$105 from the Banco da Republica for the redemption of its notes. It then issued the Banco do Brazil and Banco da Republica the important sum of 49,956,000$, besides placing 13,871,650$179 on account of interest in these banks and paying 77,098$157 to the Banco da Lavoura e Commercio on account of its guarantee of a loan to the state of Sergipe. This reduces the inside resources of the Treasury to 89,952,587$818.

THE YEAR 1893.

For the current year the minister thinks that the receipts will largely exceed those of the past year, his estimate being based on the improvable supposition that the returns for the three subsequent quarters will each equal those for the first quarter, which were about 50,000,000$. For the calendar year and the succeeding six months, which the budget appropriations are 197,000,710$416 and the extraordinary and supplementary credits already decreed 39,142,550$022, or a total of 237,043,266$438. This shows a favorable balance of 16,578,203$841, which it is unnecessary to state will never be realized.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

The public indebtedness of the Republic, according to the minister's report, is as follows:

Foreign debt.....	229,453,500
or at par of exchange.....	204,899,111$161
Internal debt, 31st Dec 1892.....	309,533 605
4% amortized gold.....	124,642,000
4% and 5%.....	261,953,400$
Loan of 1868.....	386,595,100$000
Loan of 1879.....	14,804,500 000
Loan of 1889.....	23,620,500 000
Sundry and debts.....	18,350,000 000
Treasury bills.....	309,533 605
Orphans' fund, balance.....	16,641,726 637
Estate, deceased and abs. sentes.....	4,106,552 647
Savings bank deposits.....	68,050,804 615
Monte de Socorro deposits.....	1,113,470 104
Public deposits.....	5,959,566 176
Sundry deposits, including those of banks of issue to guarantee emission.....	107,466,908 800
Total.....

To the above should be added the outstanding amount of paper money issued by the government, which we do not find in the extract from the report published in the Jornal de Commercio. This amount is probably about 175,000,000$, which would increase the indebtedness of the Treasury to about 1,085,000,000$. In addition to this, were the foreign debt entered according to the exchange of the day it would add about 325,000,000$ to the currency liabilities of the country at the present moment.

LUZ TENNIS PAULISTANO.

On May 13th the formal inauguration of this Club took place under the most favorable circumstances as regards weather and a large turn out of São Paulo society. The ground is beautifully situated in a central position and has been most judiciously laid out by the Marquês de Itaipu. A large number of money has been expended in laying out the grounds which comprise four tennis courts, a croquet lawn and a hockey ground.

The membership numbers about 150, about half of whom are Brazilians, and one of the most gratifying things connected with the Club is the enthusiasm with which many Brazilian ladies and gentlemen have taken up the game.

The opening ceremony took the form of playing the finals in the tournament which had been in progress for about a month. Play commenced at 11 a.m. in the presence of a large turn out of spectators. The grounds were tastefully decorated, and as already said the weather was of the best.

The results were as follows:
Ladies' singles (final).—Mrs. Fox beat Miss N. Muley. Prize: Gold bracelet.
Gentlemen's singles (final).—Dr. Strain beat Mr. H. Inge. Prize: Gold chain.

Ladies' doubles (final).—Mrs. Fox and Mrs. Rosa beat the Barro beat Miss N. Muley and Dr. Onilla de Barros. Prizes: Jewel-box and hand mirror.
Mixed doubles (final).—Dr. Onilla de Barros and Dr. Strain beat Miss Muley and Mr. C. Inge. Prizes: Gold bracelet and paper bag.

Gentlemen's doubles (final).—Dr. Strain and Mr. G. de Barros beat Mr. H. Inge and Mr. E. de Barros. Prizes: Table ornament and silver ink-stand.

The Club has been launched under the most favorable auspices, and it is expected that another tournament will be organized here on when players and visitors from Rio, Santos or any other part will be made welcome. It is hoped that home and home matches may be arranged with Rio and Santos and we are sure of no better way by which friendly intercourse can be kept up between the three cities.

RIO CRICKET CLUB.

"H. M. S. Wasp" vs. "Rio."
Played on the 19th inst.
It was somewhat hard luck on the Rio club to have in their first match of the season to play such a formidable team as the Wasp was able to put on the field. The result, however, a beating of 83 runs—will serve to show the Rio men that they must practice diligently in view of subsequent important engagements.

The Wasp elected to bat first, and Lieut. Sir R. K. Ashurst, Mr. F. Pierce, Mr. Owens and Lieut. Back, hit out. The conduct of the team in the field was also admirable, the bowling, fielding and throwing-in being of a high order.

Mr. J. Neelham was the only one of the home side able to offer a rational resistance to the bowling of the visitors. His wicket was the last to fall after an admirably played innings of 33.

Messrs. Wallbridge and Park were the scorers and Mr. Mando for Rio, and Mr. Crompton for the Harpale offside his umpires.

"UNDER 30" vs. "OVER 30."

Played on the 21st inst. and resulted in a win for the "Under 30" by an innings and 13 runs. For the losers the veteran Mr. E. Cox and Mr. A. Crompton did the bowling service with the bat, and Messrs. Jones and P. Morrissey with the ball. For the winners Mr. Neelham put together 30 in good style and Mr. Wheatley played carefully for 29, Mr. E. S. Youle took 8 wickets for 40 runs and Mr. Neelham 3 for 9. Messrs. Cooper and Smith were the umpires and Mr. Binn was scorer.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES.

MAY 15.—Senate.—Senator Amaro Cavalcanti introduced a bill on judicial procedure in federal courts. The Senate rejected the bill from the Chamber of Deputies authorizing the government to revise the pay-roll of railway employes.

MAY 16.—Senate.—Senator Ubaldo do Amaral introduced a bill making an appropriation of 100,000 for the Paraná university. The bill for the appointment of a national intendant in Rio Grande do Sul was voted in 1st discussion.—Chamber of Deputies.—The Chamber adjourned in token of respect for the memory of Deputy Camão, deceased on the previous day.

MAY 17.—Senate.—The committee on public works reported against the proposal of Charles Maine and others to build a railway between this city and Sapopemba. The Senate voted to refer to the committees on legislation and the constitution the bill of Senator Almeida Barreto on the immunities of officers of the army and navy.—Chamber of Deputies.—The Chamber continued to elect its officers.

MAY 18.—Senate.—The committee on the constitution reported that it had no measure to propose to the Senate in relation to the telegram from the Pernambuco legislature in regard to affairs in that state.—Chamber of Deputies.—The Chamber, on motion of Deputy Demetrio Ribeiro, decided to hold on the following day in committee of the whole for the purpose of finding a constitutional solution for the revolutionary crisis in Rio Grande do Sul with a view to maintaining the federative republican form of government. In defending his motion Deputy Demetrio Ribeiro contended that the action of the President of the republic in regard to Rio Grande had been a series of blunders and in itself at variance with the constitution and endangered the unity and institutions of the country.

MAY 19.—Senate.—The Senate adopted the report of the committee on public works against the proposal of Charles Maine and others to build a railway between this city and Sapopemba.—Chamber of Deputies.—After calling the house to order the president declared that, before resolving itself into a committee of the whole, the Chamber should decide whether the sitting should be public.

After some remarks from Deputies Zama, Glycerio and Demetrio Ribeiro, the question was decided without opposition in the affirmative. It was also decided, non est, on motion of Deputy Zama, that the president of the Chamber should retain the chair during the sitting. Deputy Demetrio Ribeiro then rose and moved to amend the joint rules of the two houses so as to permit the Senate and Chamber of Deputies to meet in joint session and adopt measures for a speedy solution of the crisis in Rio Grande do Sul. The proposed resolution was opposed by Deputies Glycerio and Valladares who argued to prove its unconstitutionality. On being put to the vote it was rejected by a vote of 70 to 46. Three bills having been introduced for the benefit of Rio Grande, Deputy Bellamino de Mendonça moved that as a basis for discussion preference should be given to that of Deputy Justino Serpa, signed by the latter and 29 other deputies. Deputy Zama enquired whether after adopting a basis for discussion the Chamber would continue to sit in committee until some measure for pacification should be adopted. He considered it expedient, he said, that it should do so. Deputy Arthur Ribeiro again signed the bill, he said, should pass through the same formalities as other bills. Deputy Demetrio Ribeiro said that it was for the purpose of avoiding the delays permitted by the rules that he had sought to effect a joint session of the two houses, and that, if it were permissible to return to that question, he would ask the Chamber to reconsider its vote. He deprecated making this matter a party question and expressed his regret that none of the members of the majority had offered a solution for the crisis in Rio Grande. The responsibility of Congress was, he said, much greater than his own, since, if he found that the representatives of the nation were unable or unwilling to do their duty, he could at any time leave his seat in Congress and join his brethren in Rio Grande.

"And I assure you that you will not go alone," said Deputy Jacques Onique, whose remark brought forth vehement applause. It was not to be expected, continued Deputy Demetrio Ribeiro, that he should fail to give expression to his convictions, when in Congress there is no one who rises and, in the name of the republic, appeals to the President to cease from his criminal intervention in Rio Grande. No one, he added, was unaware that the work of reorganization of the state was interrupted by a revolution, aided and abetted by the general government, on the 17th of June, just four days before the date fixed for the Vice-President of the republic to be inaugurated in his power to continue the war which he provoked.

"And he would do still more," said Deputy Amerio Luz, "if he were not afraid to send the garbion of this city." After some remarks from Deputy Glycerio, who said that his friends would meet that night for the purpose of deciding on the best course to be taken, Deputy Francisco Vega proposed that a committee of five should be appointed to frame within 24 hours a bill for the pacification of Rio Grande. Deputy Demetrio Ribeiro moved to continue on the following day the sitting in committee of the whole and to express the regret of the Chamber for the commission of fratricidal strife in that state. On motion of Deputy Bellamino de Mendonça Congress decided to adopt as a basis for discussion the bill signed by Deputy Justino Serpa and others. This bill provides that martial law shall be declared in Rio Grande, that a governor of the state shall be appointed by the President, subject to the approval of the Senate; that within 15 days this office be vacated by the municipal chambers holding office on Nov. 15th, 1889, to select a provisional government composed of three members; that the votes thus cast shall be counted by Congress; that within 8 days after the count of the vote martial law shall cease to exist in the state and the governor appointed by the President shall be replaced by the provisional government elected by the municipal chambers; that this government shall within 60 days issue writs for the election of a constitutional convention. The president declared that on the following day the Chamber would again meet in committee of the whole.

MAY 20.—Senate.—Senator Coelho Rodrigues moved to inquire of the government why the governor of Pernambuco continues to hold office after having been suspended. Senator João Barbalho said that the suspension is illegal. The committee on public works reported against the bill from the Chamber of Deputies for contracting with Engineer Melville Ilora for improvements in the port of Rio de Janeiro.—Chamber of Deputies.—The Chamber continued to elect its officers. A vote of 62 to 52 the motion of Deputy Demetrio Ribeiro expressing regret for the continuation of the war in Rio Grande.

RIVER PLATE ITEMS.

—The province of Cordoba possesses 95 colonies, which have 222,582 hectares of land under cultivation.

—The Apell customs receipts at Montevideo amounted to $500,151.55, a small increase on the returns of last year.

—The latest official statistics of the province of Santa Fé show that 910,000 hectares are under cultivation in 300 officially recognized colonies, inhabited by 35,000 foreign agriculturalists.

—A telegram from Buenos Aires on the 17th announces the appointment of Dr. Estanislao Zeballos to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Nicolas A. Calvo, envoy extraordinary to the United States for the settlement of the Missions question.

—The governor of the province of Buenos Aires, in a recent message, recommends the consolidation and "scaling" the interest of its foreign debt, the bondholders to take over the port of La Plata and its privileges and accessories and pay $35,000,000 for the same in bonds of the consolidated debt. The bondholders must agree to complete the port works, which are estimated to cost $2,000,000. The provincial lands are to-day quoted under 30 and the La Plata port works have cost about $2,000,000 sterling.

—The Trebol murderers have been captured through the energies of Santiago Costa, who has been searching for them since the crime was committed. It appears that at a fête held at San Jorge two rings were offered for sale which were recognized as belonging to one of the murdered women. Equines were made as to from whom the rings were purchased, not as a minute description of the three men who sold the rings in the first instance was given, these were hunted up by the police and eventually captured. The men were arrested on suspicion and put in prison, where they await trial. There seems no doubt but that they are the murderers of the unfortunate family at the Trebol colony.—Sport and Pastime, May 10.

—The title lawyer's bill sent to the provincial government of Santa Fé for the recent proceedings in Buenos Aires in connection with the grain tax amounts to $6,000. The sum, with the large amounts which have to be paid the collectors of the tax in commissions, will not leave anything like a sufficient sum to compensate the provincial government of Santa Fé for the indirect losses caused by the onerous tax. The government, however, we may suppose, always retains too short-sighted to see this, and until every colony has been driven from this province to seek a more desirable spot in which to settle they will probably not repent. Already the figures show that a number of colonies which have left the province since the tax came into force are sufficiently alarming.—Sport and Pastime.

—Buenos Aires is to have another English paper, whose debut is announced for June. It is to be called The Englishman, and it is to be presumed that its motto will be, "No Irish need apply."

—The Rosario custom-house received the sum of $785,570 mps in April, and the Buenos Aires custom house receipts during the same month were $592,333 gold and $6,735,264 mps, or a total since the 1st of January of $1,818,939 gold and $26,955,672 mps.

—What is the reason that in this country where shade is most grateful to the perspiring inhabitant, the municipalities everywhere seem bent upon leaving us without a single shade tree? In Santa Fé, Tucuman, San Nicolás, Paraná and other towns we could name, all the plazas have been denuded of the beautiful shade trees planted in most cases by the Jesuits years ago, and have been replaced by so-called ornamental gardens, with stunted shrubs and flagged pavements, which are so hot in summer that no one can frequent them and their beauty and usefulness are alike gone. The latest example of this vandalism is now going on at Belgrano, where we see that the magnificent "onlines" which graced the harmosa behind the stadium are being ruthlessly swept away by the devastating hand of the municipality which seems like a naughty school boy, never to be happy unless it is destroying something.—Review of the River Plate, May 6.

PROVINCIAL NOTES.

—On the 17th and 18th inst. there were fights in Ceará between soldiers and policemen.

—At Ribeirão Preto, S. Paulo, a few days ago, an Italian boy of 10 years of age, playing with a revolver accidentally shot a younger brother.

—The early bird catches the fine. In Santos on the 15th inst. 258 carts were fined for carrying freight before 5 o'clock a.m. Santos is surely a happy place to live in!

—It is said that the Vital de Negreiros, now at Uruguaiana, has been ordered to join the rest of the Brazilian fleet at Itajaí on the upper Uruguay. It is said that suspicions are entertained of the intentions of this gambler.

—The governor of Santa Catharina telegraphed on the 16th that in homage to American civilization he had resolved to suspend all official correspondence with the government of Rio Grande do Sul during the existence of civil war.

—On requisition of the chief of security of Pará the manager of the Banco União do Norte was arrested in Pernambuco on the 16th inst. He is charged with embezzling 100,000 of the bank's money. In his possession were found drafts and gold.

—The "Sportsman's Club" in São Paulo was raided by the police on the 17th, because of information as to the gambling excesses there, and a number of well-known men were captured and fined. It is a pity all these sporting clubs can not be closed altogether, and we are glad to note that the Paulistas are now trying to do it.

—A telegram to the Gazeta de Notícias from Rio Grande says that the government has published statements there to the effect that the election of Admiral Wandenkolk to the presidency of the naval club in Rio de Janeiro is false. It is improbable that the government should take the risk of denying what the first mail advices will surely confirm.

—The Jornal correspondent in Montevideo telegraphed yesterday that news had been received via Melo to the effect that General Saravia with 800 men attacked a government force near Bagé, on the 17th, which was guarding 1,500 horses. The horses were captured. The federalists had arrived near enough to Bagé to draw the fire of its artillery.

—Some days ago at Ribeirão Preto, S. Paulo a police officer entered the railway station and demanded that the station-master should allow him to examine certain packages for Uheralia, which, he supposed, contained weapons. Overruling the station-master's objections, he made the examination and found engineering instruments and printed matter.

—We have never seen hailstones as large as hens' eggs, but in compensation we have frequently heard of them. Perhaps we should even have seen them, had we been in Rio Bonito, S. Paulo, on the 5th inst., for they say that the hailstones that fell there on that day were as large as hens' eggs and some (apparently of an indefinite size) even as large as oranges.

—A Pernambuco telegram of the 18th says that the legislature will not send its impeachment case against the governor to the supreme tribunal of justice. Now it expects to secure impeachment without applying to the proper court, no one can understand. It is quite on the lines followed by Martins Junior all through the whole intrigue, however, and no one expects to understand it.

—An assassination occurred at Araraquara, S. Paulo, on June 21st, 1892, the assassin, Francisco L'Astoria, making his escape from the country. By some fatality, however, he could not remain in Europe, and accordingly returned to Brazil a short time ago. On the evening of the 16th the S. Paulo chief of police saw him at the theatre and at once had him arrested. The assassin thereupon confessed the crime and will, we trust, be required to submit to the penalty.

—A Rivera telegram of the 17th says that Gen. Telles was defeated at Uparumari on the 12th, losing 70 killed (including Col. Pedrosa) and over 100 wounded. On the 14th another battle was fought at Poache Verde where Gen. Telles' vanguard, under Col. Portugal, was drawn into a trap and completely routed. Santa Rosa and Montevideo telegrams of the 18th confirmed the report of the Poache Verde victory, stating that Telles lost 140 killed, prisoners, horses, two cannon, arms and ammunition. These reports are denied from Porto Alegre.
